Your message is costing you clients.

You have the skills. You have the results.

But when someone asks what you do, you fumble it. They nod politely — and walk away.

That gap is not a confidence problem.

It is a messaging problem. And it is costing you premium clients every single week.

1. Anchor to one outcome

Not 'I help coaches grow.' Say the transformation. The before and after in one line.

2. Name the person precisely

Not 'entrepreneurs.' One specific human with one specific pain. Niche messaging multiplies reach.

3. Lead with result, not method

'I help therapists build a full private practice in 90 days' beats 'I use a holistic approach.'
