"I help entrepreneurs achieve their goals."

That sentence is why no one books you.

You sound like every other coach on the internet.

The bio template killed your positioning.

"I help [target] achieve [outcome]" sounds professional.

It's also invisible. Buyers can't tell you apart from 10,000 others using the same line.

Positioning is not what you offer.

It's what you refuse.

The expert who narrows wins. The one who "helps everyone" works for free forever.

Phrases that erase you from the market:

- "I help entrepreneurs succeed"
- "Your trusted partner in growth"
- "Passionate about helping others"
- "Results-driven coach since 2015"

Generic: "I help coaches grow their business."

Sharp: "I work with coaches stuck at $5k months who refuse to lower their price."

One disappears. The other gets DMs.

Open your bio right now.

Delete every "I help" sentence.

Replace it with the moment your buyer is in and what you refuse to do. That's positioning.
