

Sam Trabulsi
@samtrabulsi

"Working with her was amazing!"

That sentence is why your testimonials are not closing clients.

Praise without proof is decoration. Buyers scroll past it.

May 2, 2026

1 / 7

Sam Trabulsi
@samtrabulsi

"5 stars. 10/10. Highly recommend."

None of that tells the buyer who they were before, what they decided, or what changed.

Generic praise gives the skeptic permission to keep scrolling.

May 2, 2026

2 / 7

Sam Trabulsi
@samtrabulsi

Buyers don't believe praise. They believe stories with stakes.

Show the pain. Show the decision. Show the after.

That is the only proof that converts. Everything else is decoration.

May 2, 2026

3 / 7

Sam Trabulsi
@samtrabulsi

4 reasons your testimonials are not converting:

- No mirror — buyer can't see themselves in it
- No measure — vibes instead of numbers
- No arc — skips the journey from stuck to free
- No persona — nameless quotes feel stock

May 2, 2026

4 / 7

Sam Trabulsi
@samtrabulsi

Generic: "She was amazing! 10/10!"

Structured: "I was posting daily for two years. Zero clients. After six weeks with Sam, I booked three premium calls."

One reads as praise. The other reads as proof.

Sam Trabulsi
@samtrabulsi

Open the testimonials on your site right now.

For each one, ask: where did this person start, what did they decide, and what changed?

If you can't answer all three, it's a quote — not a testimonial.

Sam Trabulsi
@samtrabulsi

Comment "BRAND"

May 2, 2026

7 / 7