

1. Credentials are receipts.

A stance is the bill

buyers actually pay.

2. Nobody hires the most qualified. They hire

the most certain.

3. A degree proves you studied. A POV proves you've decided.

4. Waiting to feel ready

is how the loudest peer keeps winning the work.

5. Saying "it depends"

sounds humble. It reads

as untrustworthy.

6. You don't need another course. You need a line you'll defend in public.

7. Authority is not awarded.

It is taken – out loud,

by the person willing.

Expertise is what you know. Authority is what you'll say.
